

Prestigious £28,000 geography scholarships – now open for applications

If you are recruiting trainee geography teachers, please promote the new £28,000 tax-free scholarship to your candidates.

Scholarships are aimed at high quality geographers who are passionate about their subject. Candidates must have secured an ITT training place allocated by the National College for Teaching and Leadership (NCTL), which leads to qualified teacher status (QTS) by September 2019 and they must have a 2:1 (or predicted) degree. Candidates with a 2:2 (or predicted) may be considered if they can demonstrate significant subject knowledge.

Successful applicants will receive additional support to enhance their subject knowledge and gain access to high quality professional development resources and mentoring.

Candidates can apply through the Royal Geographical Society.

There is also a range of scholarships available for other subjects, including computing, chemistry, languages, maths and physics. For further details, including eligibility, please visit Get Into Teaching.
